

THE STORY OF PHILIP LONG

By: Corey and Sarah

Revolutionary War Hero

- Philip Long was in Philadelphia when the Revolutionary War started.
- He was 18 years old.
- Philadelphia had many business owners who bought from the British. The city was mostly loyal to the King of England.
- Philip Long joined the Red Coats.

Joining the Dragoons

- Philip joined the Dragoons when he served in the war.
- The Dragoons were spies who spied on the Revolutionaries.

It was 1781 when Phillip joined the Dragoons.

Phillip soon became a hero for the Loyalist army.

AFTER THE WAR

- The Loyalists lost the war.
- After the war he moved to Canada.
- The British gave him a piece of land as a reward.

He married a girl named Julie.

He had 13 kids in his family but 5 died.

PHILIP WAS A MAIL MAN

- He was a mail man in Tamiscouata.
- He traveled by foot, snowshoe, and by horse.
- His home became a station for travelers and couriers.

Later he moved to Clair.

Philip Long Died

- He lived in Clair for the next 5 years.
- On Christmas Day in 1832, war hero and postman , Philip Long died at home.
- He was buried in St. Luce Cemetery in Frenchville, Maine because that was the closest cemetery around.